DOCUMENT OPTIONS FOR AB 60 DRIVER'S LICENSES

as approved on June 22, 2015

The following identity documents listed have been approved to be used at DMV fields as part of the AB 60 application. There are two options for providing identity documents – for 1) you can provide one approved electronically verifiable document or 2) you can provide two documents, one of which is electronically verifiable. At the end is a list of approved foreign passports; if your country is not listed it does not mean you are ineligible for an AB 60 license, instead you can proceed with your application through Secondary Review. In addition to these documents, you also need to provide California residency documents.

ONE (1) DOCUMENT

If you're from Mexico:

- Mexican Federal Electoral Card (Institutio Federal Electoral (IFE) Credencial para Votar) issued in 2013
- Mexican Passport issued in 2008 or later
- Mexican Consular Card (Matricula Consular) issued in 2006 or 2014

Foreign Passport from "Table 1: List of Approved Passports" AND if you also have a Social Security Number account that is electronically verifiable with the Social Security Administration.

If you got a California Driver's License or ID sometime after the year 2000:

- California Driver's License issued in or after October 2000
- California Identification Card issued in or after October 2000

TWO (2) DOCUMENTS[1]

If you're from Argentina:

- Argentinian Identification Card (Documento Nacional de Identidad (DNI) – 2009 or 2012 version)
- Argentinian Passport issued on or after 2009

If you're from Chile:

- Chilean Identification Card (Cedula de Identidad – 2013 version)
- Chilean Passport issued on or after 2013

[1] One of the major difference in the new regulations is in the Two Documents table (for primary documents), which removed Foreign Birth Certificates as an eligible primary document. The birth certificates were removed due to the confusion about Apostille certifications and translation requirements. However, you can still use birth certificates for the Secondary Review process!

If you're from El Salvador:

- El Salvadorian Identification Card (Documento Unico de Identidad (DUI) – 2010 version)
- El Salvadorian Passport issued on or after 2009

If you're from Ecuador:

- Ecuadorian National Identification Card (Cédula de Ciudadanía – 2006 and 2009 versions)
- Ecuador Consular Card (Tarjeta de Identification Consular – 2015 version)
- Educador Passport issued on or after 5/7/2013

If you're from Peru:

- Peruvian Identification Card (Documento Nacional de Identidad (DNI) – 2005 version)
- Peruvian Passport issued on or after 2010

If you're from Guatemala:

- Guatemalan National Identification Card (Documento Personal de Identificación (DPI) – 2012 version).
- Guatemalan Consular Card (Tarjeta de Identificación Consular – 2002 version)
- Guatemalan Passport issued on or after 2011

If you're from Brazil:

- Brazilian Consular Card (Carteira de Matricula Consular – 2010 version)
- Brazilian Passport issued on or after 2006

If you're from Colombia:

- Colombian Consular Card (Consular Registration – 2015 version)
- Colombian Passport issued on or after 10/2009

- Foreign Passport (listed in Table 1)

For many African and Asian undocumented immigrants, unless you have a valid Social Security number or have previously obtained a California Driver's License or ID, you will most likely have to go through the Secondary Review process. This process allows AB 60 applicants to bring a wide variety of identity documents to establish identity for the purposes of obtaining a license; most applicants will be able to obtain an AB 60 license through this process.
